

From: [REDACTED] [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Report # 137: Life in [REDACTED]
Date: Thu, 26 Aug 2010 17:17:30 +0000

Hallo!

One of our visiting professors wants to hold a lecture on Sexually Transmitted Deceases and suicides in the US. I mean... is this really the topic a gay Jew should lecture about in [REDACTED]...?

My new boss gave me my first lesson: "In academia, the academic side will always get what it wants." Such pompousness makes me want to laugh. Men in real power never have to push their weight around.

[REDACTED] has tripled the number of Buddhists in [REDACTED]! All our New York Jews coming to work has to tick the box for "Buddhist" as their religion. Needless to say they also need to tick the "heterosexual" box...

One of my European girlfriends met an Iraqi guy a month ago through his mother... Umm... anyway, she's in love and they're getting married early next year... Ding, ding, PASSPORT!

Having a [REDACTED] passport safely tucked away in my closet (except for when I lose it), it is very difficult to comprehend the things someone is willing to do to get a passport (like getting married).

Be grateful for the passport you have!

[REDACTED]