Thanks for sending me this (and the other NYT article earlier in week). It is incredible how much things are moving to the cell phones and how much can be done with that. In few years it will totally change the way we live.

We should identify some interesting projects.

I do know many major players in this area.

I am just leading yet another program with health care and cell phone with Foundation

This is probably one of the last programs I am leading as I am transitioning from granting to high level strategy.

Talk to you soon!

Boris
