Hi Team,

Couple of important points that need to be circulated. It's essential moving forth that all concept and ideas need to be sketched out by hand and emailed to Jeffrey for discussion. NO formal drawings should be created before he gives the go ahead. Also, all decisions on work to be commenced MUST be reviewed and signed off by JE. If you can't get a timely response from him, email me. The recent example of the library courtyard that doesn't work - in actuality - functionally or aesthetically was about to be built by Gary without being properly signed off.

This is an exciting project, and we're pleased to be working with you on it, but in order to have things work effectively, please, please follow the above protocol. It's essential!

Many thanks, Shelley
