I understand that is how you feel. I have seen the world and was introduced to things I would not have had an opportunity to see at such young age and I thank you for that.

I also think you have restricted my growth in areas that were not immediately beneficial to you. I thought that was over when you supported my flying but now even that seems to be an issue.

It's not your lifestyle that is in conflict with my needs. All I want is a family - a baby with you; not to restrict your freedom. After years of hindrances, many reasons and excuses, it still hasn't happened. I have been very patient. If you are now unwilling to do that, then we really do want different things and having a child is not something I can give up. I am willing to work as hard as I can for us to be happy, to have a family and I am willing to accept and embrace your lifestyle, your friends and your needs but this is the one thing I need and I can't defer and ignore.

got the food last night,, thank you..

its been a month now. I understand your fathers concern.. I will not abandon our friendship. coupleship or whatever you would prefer to call it. however I think we should be honest with one another. It appears we want different things. I have tried to encourage your growth, introduced you to new things and attempted to give you new eyes, so that you may see more of the world. My lifestyle seems to conflict with what you want.- I understand... I cannot live with restrictions .freedom. fun, and growth. no dana, no jenn, no this one , no that one , I need light , not shutters. I want you to be happy, unfortunatley it seems , your way , is at my expense. not paralel but in conflict. If you want this to continue, it will be hard work, if you don't , want to go through this I understand.
