Attached: a "friend" of mine has all this weaponry and more in his house. You gotta love Texas (and one man's ability to use his status as a provider of military technology to get licenses to buy himself a crapload of silenced automatic weapons.

I have attached an interesting article on the threat of cyberterror… I think its pretty fascinating.

Lastly, here's a fun little article about the Iranian scientist "disappearance" which alludes to "Operation Brain Drain" in Iran.

http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/middleeast/iran/6797860/Iranian-scientist-who-vanished-gave-nuclear-secrets-to-UN-inspectors-sent-to-Qom-site.html
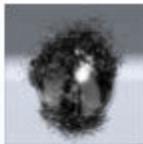

A pretty entertaining read is David Ignatius Book, "The Increment"… a fictional account very much related to our Hourglass Initiative idea.

If you speak with David Grosoff, perhaps mention the initiative… he would probably be an ok advisor…

I'll be going to TED, to DLD, to Israel for Kinnernet (which is terrific fun even for us A.D.D. and social phobic types…) and I think the next Gadgetoff will be Sept 24th or thereabouts in NYC… probably also participating in some WEF events in Morocco and in South America.

Your pal Berlusconi's public "face-lift" really sucked…

Anyway, happy holidays !
