I spoke with [REDACTED] and explained the tax implications of forgiveness of debt income to her. She asked if she were to receive a 1099 for portion of debt forgiven would she also receive a note stating that the notes have been satisfied? Please advise.

tell her you cant' do that.. in fact she owes and has signed for 60,000. this does not include monies that were merely gifts.. ,as far as her tax person, she should explain that if she pays 30 k and we forgive 30 k. we will have to give her a 1099 for all moneis forgiven.

Hello Rich, Hello Jeffrey,

thanks for your call today. I hope all is well.

I can not provide you with anything in writing about my taxes.

My accountant didn't understand why you want something in writing about my taxes.

He says that I don't owe any taxes on the money from [REDACTED]. He also said that if I do owe any money to the government, the IRS will ask me for it and that I don't have to provide anybody except the IRS with tax information.

So please, I have written to you everything you have asked in prior emails, now would you kindly write something for me that says that I do not owe you any money?

best regards,

[REDACTED]
