And WHY did you do that yesterday after I left.. with [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] instead of doing it with me? That is a perfect example. You spend time with them, show them and explain what you want, when and how. Think about that. Why didn't you go to whole foods with me..and home depot the last time ? Why didn't you 'go through the house' with me? You make things as difficult as you can for me; expect me to read your mind at every moment, guess what and when you might want to eat today, not bother you by asking questions except between 6.30AM- 7am and when I can't do that, you feel it is right to complain. With other people you "spend the day going through cabinets and flowers" and you are surprised to get a different result. I still don't have any explanation re you changing [REDACTED]'s trip as soon as I left despite our agreement she would leave yesterday.
