Thank you!!!! His name is John Kristensen - his experience is real estate banking but he said he is very much open to other areas. I've known him for 4 years and he never asks for help.. he is always the one helping others and is one of my biggest fans for my website. If anyone can help, it's you.

What am I doing? Well, I'm enjoying a much needed mellow Sunday.. the past 2 weeks were filled with out of town friends visiting and it was really fun, but now I'm beat. The one great thing about this city is that so many friends pop thru for a quick visit. I had to beg, plead and pull teeth to get friends to visit me in Dallas and Newport Beach.

AND. I've taken up a new hobby.. enrolled myself in a class once a week to learn to master it because I don't enjoy cooking and baking in the kitchen of our apartment here. It takes the joy out of it.

I'm learning how to DJ!! Random, right?... but I absolutely love it!!! Actually, I wanted to enroll in the class 3 years ago, the first time I lived in New York but it was too expensive and it has been something I've regretted ever since. My teacher said I'm a natural and it's a skill I may pursue seriously as I am uninspired at my job. I still need to buy equipment and the software, it's definitely a small investment but there are not many sophisticated women DJs... mostly tom boys.

[REDACTED]. What do you think!!!!????? =)

Hi Jeffrey! I hope you are really well. And I hope the transition has been smoother than your favorite girls' bum. heehee.

May I send you the resume of a dear friend of mine who was an analyst for ML and Bear? He lives in London, originally from Sweden. He is one of my best friends and is a really good guy.

I do hope to see you sometime in the near future! I send you lots of love from the UES of the N.Y.C.
happy Sunday
