Re: PROPOSAL

Dear Customer,

We wish to thank you for your kind request to receive an offer for aircraft appearance.

The offer considers Permagard Pricing to bring the aircraft maintenance standards as well as appearance.

Properly maintaining the exterior surfaces of your fleet is very important for the following reasons:

- Industry standards suggest that a clean aircraft exterior reduces drag and improves fuel efficiency
- Aircraft appearance plays an important role in creating a favorable impression in customer and passengers' minds.
- Proper aircraft surface and landing-gear cleaning contributes also to safety of an aircraft.

We know price can often be a factor, however it is essential that companies performing cleaning services abide to strict high quality standards while using state of the art equipment and aviation approved products to protect your investment.

Proposal:

PERMAGARD

The Permagard service consists in the application of a long-lasting protective coating that is suitable for all types of aerospace paint and composites. Once buffed onto painted surfaces by certified technicians, the treatment bonds and creates a high quality protective coating with a glass-like finish that is extremely shiny and smooth to touch. It provides a durable protection against harsh contaminants, slows deterioration of the paint, and prevents premature oxidation by blocking UV exposure. Permagard's twelve-month warranty from the date of original application is renewable based upon adherence to an annual service treatment being carried out to clean the Permagard coating. The initial application service will require 96 full access hours to the aircraft.

TOTAL PRICE.....$

TOTAL - $5,000.00

Aircraft will not be charged hangar or ramp fees if brought to Fontainebleau in OPF for the duration of the job.
