Dear Ms. [REDACTED]:

I am sending this letter to give you an opportunity to comment for a series of stories, as well as a documentary, we are producing about Jeffrey Epstein.

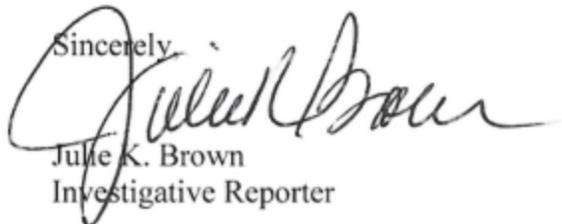

As part of this project, we have identified more than 60 women, and interviewed four, who allege they were molested by Mr. Epstein when they were teenagers, under the age of consent in Florida. They also allege that you were part of his sex-pyramid scheme. We have also reviewed thousands of court documents, witness testimony and discovery to put together this series, which primarily focuses on the failings of the criminal justice system as it relates to Mr. Epstein's case.

I have also poured over hundreds of stories. As you are aware, many of those stories -- as well as several lawsuits -- allege that you, Ghislaine Maxwell and others -- were involved in a sex-trafficking operation involving underage girls.

I am offering you the opportunity to discuss anything you like related to the allegations that have been made over the past decade. An interview would help provide balance to my story. In lieu of speaking to you directly, I am willing to speak to anyone you designate, should it be a lawyer or someone else.

This story is scheduled to run sometime in the next few weeks, so it is important that, if you want to contribute, that you respond in a timely manner.

Sincerely,

Julie K. Brown
