In this past week of craziness with

Lynn I have one more thing to add to it. My doctor called tonight and said that everything looked good on treadmill today but when reviewing pictures she saw a minor blockage and that my heart was big and sitting down. She was not so alarmed of a major issue as if something was totally off i would not have been able to do 20 minutes plus on the treadmill today. Doctor Van-Hong Nguyen wants me to have an angiogram next week to rule out blockages.

A bit disturbing for a 43 year old who is in good shape and eats rather healthy. Any thoughts or advice is welcomed.

Will keep you posted..
