Today the Nobel prizes and tenures go to technicians not thinkers
We are outcastes - untouchables
As Indians especially we should accept the karma - for now

Yes but how technicians? Why technicians?

How did such great insights from the most respected minds clustered in the same time period not create a powerful thrust that guided subsequent generations?

Perhaps it did after all. That's why we are seeing things like sas and sand.

Enjoy reading bohr, schrodinger, einstein, etc. Stalwarts. Wonder what happened in the 100 years since then? Where has all that insight been directed?

Energy is the flux of consciousness - the apparent activity of consciousness. Information is the pattern of that activity. One doesn't manifest without the other. There is no pattern without patterning. This definition of energy as the activity of consciousness can bridge subjective and objective forms of it, prana and Joules, for example. I have included an exposition of this in the coming book. It's kind of a crazy book 😊

The recognizable universe is a patterning of consciousness. The essential universe is consciousness itself.

Agree. The importance of energy and information is not that it yields truth per se, but rather it provides a conceptual bridge between matter and consciousness, a few steps in between.

There is still a need in society to account for experience scientifically / philosophically, specifically in a way that converges multiplicity unto consciousness. For a mainstream mind, that has to start by acknowledging the apparent ubiquity of multiplicity, of experiences. Energy and information too are ubiquitous in that frame of mind. That makes them powerful, capable concepts because all experience can converge in their experience.

It's like the mahavakya prajnanam brahma - which helps the seeker consolidate all experience into a symbol of consciousness. Then the symbol is released. It eases and makes the scientific mind single-pointed.

Energy and information are human concepts

There is only experience and the knowing of experience in awareness

Truth can never be experienced by a system of thought - scientific religious or philosophical

Sure about?

...energy and information being the scientific bridge between matter and consciousness? Yes. Ultimately I think love, justice etc will also be seen as information when using a scientific lens.

...spirituality being old news? Comes down to definitions. I think spirituality today has become too much of an -ity. We don't have to reject it, but it needs to loosen up. I think a deft story of practicality today is more relevant than the popular form of the spirituality story.
