Jeffrey,

Attached are photos from 14 years ago when we refurbished Liz Claiborne's GIV using bleached white oak. Not the best photos, but thought it would provide a reference.

Additionally, the last photo (attached) is from a GIVsp that a client is asking me for a refurbishment proposal. Although it is old and worn, this is very close to a "whitewashed" white oak. Notice the the grayish tone of the grain on the lid (that conceals the switch panel and phone).

Bleached white oak samples will vary greatly dependent upon customer preference – some time with a tan / grayish tone with some white highlights in the grain.
