No need for you to spend anymore time on this stupidity ,
You have been great , but he had lost his mind

Your focus is better spent in more worthwhile endeavors

I asked the chef sorry - begged him to stay on for 4 weeks

We have a document of 50 items to shut down a restaurant- ALAN reviewed all items that would be needed to stay in business - don't understand why you keep asking about this - I'm trying my best to have mike stay

He had a direct meeting with DAVID on his compensation

What's the issue in setting the chef up so he can take over - no different then all the info I have sent DAVID prior to even having the chef think about staying

Terms that you suggested?

Correct. We all have sat in meetings to think how to keep this going till June 5 -

But punch line is no one trusts DAVID so his terms were geared as such

Not sure why your asking the question regarding what the chef wants to stay on But he and other senior Mgmt have been in meetings prior to discuss how gam can take over the restaurant as it does with the hotel along with Alan giving insight on what is needed to turn the process over and reality on how it will work

I agree, you and david should sit down. I will try to make it happen. only one question did you have anything to do with the terms that your chefl presented. ?

Jeffrey- This has to stop that these emails going through you I'm not going to respond after this last email that you can pass on

DAVID can email me directly or go through his attorney but for many reasons I'm not communicating through you after tonight

DAVID as the GP has a fiduciary responsibility to the business - I have sent over the last few months many emails addressing the dire condition the restaurant is in - Never to be fully addressed - again we have also not spoken in months - I tried for months to address what is best for the business - never to be responded to

It has gone past the point of no return

I will positively be closing Henry by May 6

The LLC is bankrupt - it would cost between 200-300 to pay everyone their due money not to mention the $227 k I have personally lent the hotel starting as of 12/2016 and each month have sent a total expense report - repeatedly asking how and when I will be paid back - never to be answered

Michael v has said he sent you a proposal to stay open for at least the next 4 weeks - so you will not have any down time - I have offered to have a priority loan up to $50k so the hotel is not putting out any cash at the start

Also Leaving approx $30 k in working inventory -

Mark at gam can hire the 12 or so employees I hear mike v will keep on staff

Cash flow will be the hotels

We are both on the liquor license- so the license stays in full force-you will only likely need to buy liquor on COD as you will with most food vendors - but that should not be any issue at all - mike v will do all purchasing I would assume - and if loan is given will not be a cash issue

You have at least 5 weeks to transition another operator which should be with out missing a beat

I will be glad to have a meeting with DAVID on Monday to help answer any questions he has

Still not addressed is the tco issue and bringing Gary z back on board to help with all needed TR reports - any actual updates

What is best for the business is for the restaurant and the bar to continue as it is now

- Liquor license stays under Hanson entity
- Employees stay employed by current entity
- All sales to be run through current entity
- All sale taxes to be collected by current entity and be paid by same
- All purchasing to be done by current entity

There would be no difference to what is happening tonight or for the last few months

The positive is that cash flow should be very significant as this is one of the busiest months of the year

I personally would be very appreciative if this happen as it would give enough time to make an effective transition to another operator and have the flexibility in a transaction with that operator (new)to allow a sale to happen without being tied to an arrangement with that operator (new)

thank you,
David
