

From: "jeffrey E." <jeevacation@gmail.com>
To: Joscha Bach <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: Nectome
Date: Sun, 15 Apr 2018 23:29:09 +0000

---

jim is clever. only spoke once to him

On Sun, Apr 15, 2018 at 7:10 PM, Joscha Bach <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Dear Jeffrey,

While in SF, I have met Robert McIntyre (the CEO of Nectome) and spent an evening with him. I got the impression that he is sincere and smart, but Nectome is just a two people show at this point, with a 2M runway. Robert hopes to be able to extract information about mental states from his preserved nervous tissue in a few years from now. I don't believe that they have a meaningful shot at reviving people, but then, nobody really does. While Robert seems to believe in his mission, I think that their market could be high end tissue preservation for forensics, medical diagnostics and neuroscience research. At the moment, they seem to be trying for the much smaller market of transhumanist funeral rites, but since they only share it with Alcor even that might work out.

Unrelated: what do you think about Jim O'Neill?

Cheers,

Joscha

--

please note

The information contained in this communication is confidential, may be attorney-client privileged, may constitute inside information, and is intended only for the use of the addressee. It is the property of JEE

Unauthorized use, disclosure or copying of this communication or any part thereof is strictly prohibited and may be unlawful. If you have received this communication in error, please notify us immediately by return e-mail or by e-mail to jeevacation@gmail.com, and destroy this communication and all copies thereof, including all attachments. copyright -all rights reserved