Dear David,

It was good to see you yesterday.

As discussed, K2 is familiar with cases of this nature and can assist in a number of ways, including through evidence gathering and tracing the subject's assets, movements and relationships.

In addition, we can provide forensic reviews of emails, mobile phones, iCloud accounts as well as monitoring usage of these and other devices and communications. In a recent case, in order to detect who was responsible for accessing a client's personal information, a tracking device was attached to an email sent to the suspect, which succeeded in identifying the latter's IP address and in turn the location of the responsible party.

Often in cases of this nature, K2 would be instructed by a lawyer in order to maintain legal privilege and compile an evidence file which is admissible in court. K2 only operates within the law and has strong relationships with a number of law firms which allow us to work towards a creative and effective resolution to each client's unique issues.

We would welcome the opportunity to discuss this in more detail to get a sense of your contact's requirements, and to give you a more detailed idea of how we can help.

With best regards,

Ros
