Dear Jeffery, [REDACTED] very sorry we are not being able to understand each other. This is a space planning diagram and does not intend to be an accurate drawing in any way. It's purpose is simply to define the approximate locations, dimensions and connections of the general areas of the program you gave us.

The main entrance area is clearly marked in the 1st level diagram; perhaps you missed it...

Everything was done according to your specific instructions and dimensions and trying to replicate as close as possible the shape of the building from the photos that you provided of the Chateau L' Horizon, so to be honest with you, I have no idea what is it that you find "totally wrong" and we can't help you like this.

If there are specific things that you want us to correct like removing the secondary laundry or relocating the guest-rooms on the third level to avoid certain areas below, we can certainly talk about it and modify whatever you need, as many times as needed.

I know we can make this project work but we are both loosing time and money and neither of us is happy working like this. This is not the right way or process to design a custom home of this caliber.

We need to define if you are going to trust us and let us continue developing the next stages and design this properly for you or if you prefer that we stop and terminate our agreement and move on in a different route.

In any case, we need to settle the open invoices and all the accounting for the services provided so far.

Please let me know your thoughts and how do you wish to proceed.

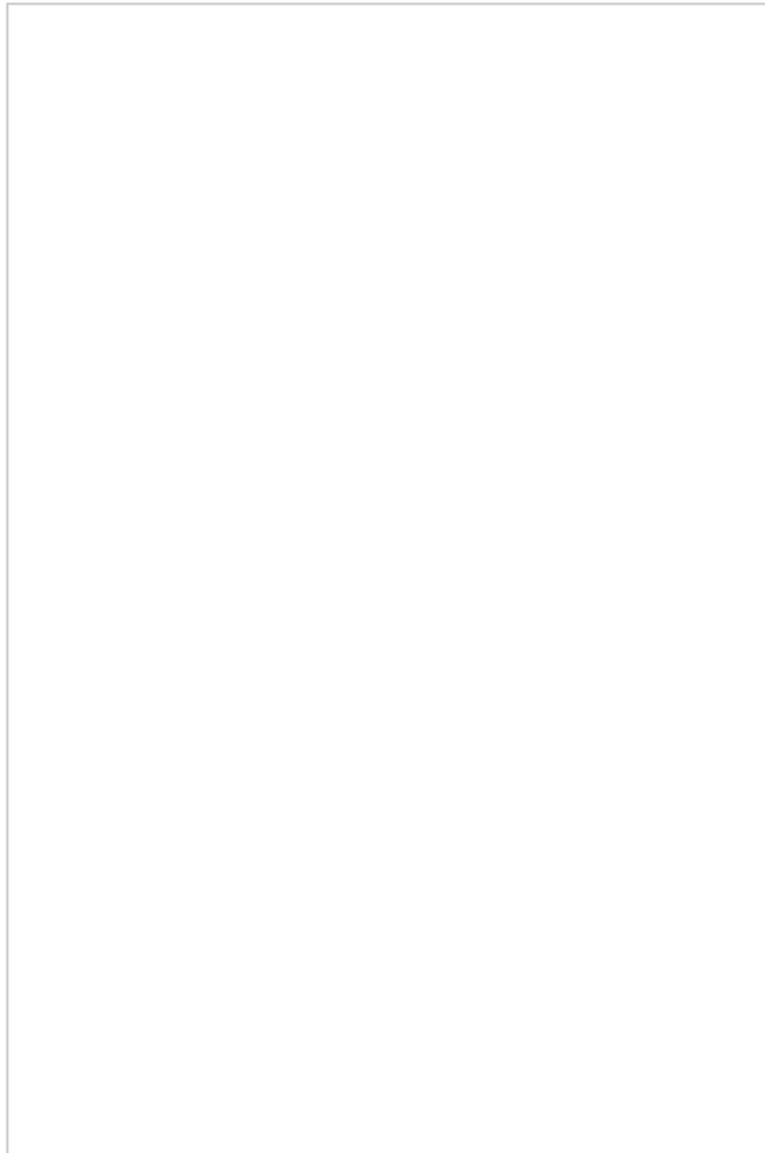

Kind regards,

Ramon Alonso

Dear Jeffery,

Please find attached the revised zoning diagram showing the approximate sizes, locations and connections of each one of the interior spaces of the program you gave me.

Everything has been arranged within an envelope of the model that resembles the supplied information of Chateau L' Horizon as per your specific request.

I really hope that this Zoning Diagram works for you and that we can continue developing the schematic design and detailed layouts once we have your approval and/or comments.

Please let me know if you would like to discuss over the phone over the weekend.

Kind regards,

Ramon Alonso
