I am there anytime you want to vent. biz is not really important at the end of the day. your reputation will not be damaged if one of your many ventures is not as successful as all of the many others, . it is like the pimple on the nose of the girl at the prom, she thinks everyone is looking. no one really notices as they already know her and like her. I also understand that , like me, science and finance is much easier to deal with than the emotions of wives. friends. employees. partners. associates. dependents etc. I am there in any capacity that you might find helpful. If you decide to open a second front. we should talk. waterloo is not just a train station
