There is just one thing I really don't understand. Your assistants in NY don't have a job that pays the rent because they don't pay it and are taking art classes which is more of a hobby. They chose a class they enjoy. When I asked you if I could do an art or photography class which is my passion you told me it's the prescription of failure and doing what you enjoy in life is childish and stupid. In parallel, I need to work doing things I don't like while they are taking classes they enjoy without having to pay a rent. I guess they are also living in a "make believe world". I really can't explain this total contradiction.

what is stupid about it ? You said I needed a job that pays a rent and a living because mine is not well paid. I agree, but I haven't found any better offer.

Since I cannot follow my dreams because it's "stupid" and can't work in finance either, If I become an escort girl, make 60k a month, be independent and pay myself a rent would you be proud ? According to what you said: "you chose a job that pays little because you like it, instead of choosing a job that pays the rent." In your sentence and from what you told me previously, you seem not to care about my career path and my passions but only about how much money I make in order to pay myself a rent, regardless of what I do. This is what I understood. At the moment I might have a job that pays little but at least I'm working hard, I'm learning and I'm helping myself.

yes, and when you told me he held out money so that you would have to do something to get it each month. I told you i didnt like it but you did what you had to. I would help and the only thing you had to do was NOT LIE , or STEAL. , only two things netierh of which you did. that is the prescription for failure. your romantic desire to only do as you enjoy is STUPID childish and will only lead to failure. if you are unwilling to accept life as it is. but want to live in the make believe world of what you would like it to be, you will end up again in a bad place. you
