Hi. My assumption is that Leon Black does not wish to get inducted into any recognition societies (especially since his gift is anonymous). But, if you think he might enjoy it and want to ask him, he is eligible, apparently.

If you agree with my assessment, I'll just tell Richard that no recognition is the way to go.

Thanks!

He falls in a similar category as Michael Bloomberg, in that since they have given anonymously I can't see much on their record. I wanted to check in to see if you thought Leon would benefit from being welcomed into the Charter Society (we could certainly reference is desire for anonymity in his LRR note), or whether his request for anonymity should carry to this membership.
