thanks for helping feed the guests. it would be great if next time , when you come home , you walk over say hello,, is there anything you guys need or want.. it is impolite to bring over dessert , without being asked,, what flavor , would you want, it makes guests feel as if they have to eat the things on the plate/.. i realize the gesture was meant to be kind.. it is like ground school for the real world . would you like something else, are you finished, its equivalent to radio check,, loud and clear
