

From: Jeffrey Epstein <jeevacation@gmail.com>

To: [REDACTED]

Subject: Re: Fw:

Date: Mon, 03 Aug 2009 13:44:06 +0000

don't sell yourself short,, i won't allow it,, i recognize you don't want /like / desire to be alone. however, if he were just a neutral influence, as contrasted with a great deal more heat than light. the decision would be easier.. If you like i am more tha willing to give him a spiritual spanking explaining that as he is now manifested in physical form his trials are not yours. and that it he needs to exorcise his own demons as opposed to becoming yours

On Mon, Aug 3, 2009 at 6:23 AM, <[REDACTED]> wrote:

All I asked him was where are the sandals and could he find them. So rude.

Problem is that while he gives me nothing, he doesn't demand much apart from money and lodging. Not sure there are many co-pilots around at my time of life. Hardly people queuing up and current photos looking very puffy.

Sent from my BlackBerry® wireless device

From: Jeffrey Epstein

Date: Mon, 3 Aug 2009 09:19:01 -0400

To: <[REDACTED]>

Subject: Re: Fw:

i'm sorry----but as you enter the springtime of your senility , i think you are in need of a co-pilot , to help fly and navigate through ever more uncertain weather , rather than a eternal passenger, who continues to bring on just one more carry -on. and complains about the lack of space, quality of the journey, and smell of the loo.

On Mon, Aug 3, 2009 at 9:06 AM, <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Had a real bust up with R this morning and now heading off for Corfu. He is self-obsessed, absorbed by whatever is absorbing him, unable to accomodate me or anything else at that time. He said he needed 500 pounds for household needs. Why doesn't he go out and earn some? Am I going to face this for rest of my life?

Sent from my BlackBerry® wireless device

From: Jeffrey Epstein

Date: Sun, 2 Aug 2009 07:04:53 -0400

To: PETER MANDELSON<[REDACTED]>

Subject:

call me [REDACTED]