if evolution moves towards more complex systems , you can see it in music, where now remixes uses video collections and music comprised of various musical types peices, performances are mashed together to form a new style. instead of individual instruments each phrase can be an entire orchestra, band solo performance, now structured as a new complex whole. The same with business.. The technical nerds, , previously at the bottom of the heap , have moved up and formed a new hierarchy. new combinations of security, music, money , defense, have combined to form new super organisms, . the financial crisis could be defined as punctuated equilibrium. the new forms Will be combinations of the old. with emergent properties

i like this quote:

"Talent hits a target no one else can hit, genius hits a target no one else can see." (Schopenhauer)
