Dear Jeffery, the mood images were only a tool for us to get a feel of the overall style and look that we thought you would like. Many of the images come from Bali and many others from different places in Mexico and many different Design Firms.

We will take some elements and create our own original designs for you, which will be presented to you in renderings we are working on right now, just like we did with the pavilion idea and I am positive you will love them.

We will certainly need help down the road, like all the consultants we explained, such as Engineers, water feature experts, etc, etc and we will propose the most suitable ones when the time comes.
