Hi Jeffrey,

How are you and how is your search for your homes go? Please let me know what you are looking for in particular and if I cannot help I will be happy to recommend someone as I have done quite a lot of networking in the industry.

I have been working on my site, still not completely done, but I think it covers well the general meaning, especially consulting part that I want to do most. Would appreciate your thoughts on that:

I am looking for new clients as I am almost done with putting JP's homes in order, and we are finishing a big construction project so in a month I will have less income from him. I am very good at what I describe on the site (and JP will always be happy to give me best references).

Thanks,
Dasha
