Exactly (not changed or modified in any way) from what I sent you before, and then, just add on the three payments you made directly to Mike.

10K

That comes to a total average of 10K month. Mike's monthly fee for himself was $7500/month (which was for the first two months), and he took an additional 5K to do the initial set up. I did not pay him all at once up front, because that is not how I do business. When they have shown me that they can do the work and get results, then, I pay, which is what I did. I also got a substantial discount off his standard price for cash, which is what happens with most of the people I was working with. I was trying to keep costs down not the opposite. There was the additional monies for the hackers and [REDACTED] I ended up having them all do far more work as favors.

There is absolutely nothing in here for me other than helping out a friend who helped us. That was it.
