

From: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
To: Jeffrey Epstein <jeevacation@gmail.com>
Subject: Re:
Date: Sun, 12 Dec 2010 17:59:13 +0000 honestly jeffrey my perspective on you and I and what was possible was always different from yours I think. From the chime of your email, I take that you wanted me to develop a career for myself that would lead me to independence.

I'd put it that I wanted to develop my self and from that establish a position , do something of value, something that brought value to others. On the contrary, you always told me there was a short cut to success and that I shouldn't ever work for anyone other than you, that it didn't make sense. This was the dominant thesis for the better part of ten years. And though with initial resistance, a resistance that is once again fundamental , i took on and advocated your template of thought. My perspective came from that of a woman who quite simply was in love with you and saw you as that type of partner, not as a prize in need of buying, something much more real and simple. In my eyes, and the eyes of many others you took my maidenhood and in exchange for that there was some contribution on your part to assist me in cultivating the greater part of my life. A different kind of humaneness is invoked I suppose.

I may well be completely wrong with this, but in the spirit of abject honesty, to be quite frank, I don't think your antics serve you and I never wholeheartedly did. It is ironic that you eulogize those that support it and contribute to it, but on your most intimate level , a place that I'd venture to say, I may well have touched, I think it leaves you feeling depleted. Balance and equilibrium in life is essential for wholeness and the move in Paris, though I remain sorry for any behavior on my part that engendered negativity, aniliated that sense. To have it yes, no doubt, you need it but I think you also need a caring that is different from that which you perpetually seek, both pleasure and emotional security in the long run are better when they are not bought. i might well be wrong with all of this, in fact i'm happy to be wrong. that is ok. I think you are an extraordinary person, and i'll always hold you as nothing other than most special and ' truly wonderful! ' at the turn of the milenium, you told me you wanted to change your life , you asked for money to help you, you took it and bought [REDACTED] a watch, a year later after refusing to go to school becauseit wwould take too long. you enrolled in silly classes. you took money and gave it to [REDACTED], you then took money so that someone would be [REDACTED], you then took money and went with [REDACTED] to [REDACTED], you then took money and went to [REDACTED] to finally decide on your future, as you thought it needed a change, you then moved to [REDACTED] to work on paper shuffling, taking more silly classes, though i continued to say skill building, you then decided [REDACTED] would give you time to get your life in order, that was last year, you took money and vacationed in [REDACTED] with friends,, you then told me you needed mony in order to have a base, you then went to [REDACTED], you then went on holiday with your parents, you then said you were serious about helping, and like usual , disrupted a meeting because i referred to you as sweetie, made a fool of yourself in [REDACTED], focusing on what you want , sending me emails about how i don't understand how much you have done, , 11years of the same story, it s all about you. laying in bed taking , not giving, I have been a devoted friend , and have been there for a very long time, I have tried to help your [REDACTED] you always have beleiveed that there was a short cut to success. and you were clever enough to find it. your true talents , thoughtfulness ,caring, (i remener you [REDACTED]) have been focused on you you you and you.

On Dec 9, 2010, at 5:28 AM, Jeffrey Epstein wrote:

--

The information contained in this communication is confidential, may be attorney-client privileged, may constitute inside information, and is intended only for the use of the addressee. It is the property of Jeffrey Epstein Unauthorized use, disclosure or copying of this communication or any part thereof is strictly prohibited and may be unlawful. If you have received this communication in error, please notify us immediately by return e-mail or by e-mail to jeevacation@gmail.com, and destroy this communication and all copies thereof, including all attachments.