hi jeffrey,

i've meet rich at the house on 71st st yesterday, and he showed me the rooms need plastering and paint.
i've talked to a friend of mine..he does this kind of things..he is romanian but american citizen, he is like my age, he studied engineering in romania but here he does painting and other construction things, he is modest and nice..i trust him.., so he is going to meet rich on 71st st and start working thursday morning.

tomorow i'll fly to the island, and i was wondering if you want me to bring again that french guy to finish venetian plaster in those two small rooms in master bedroom building, and then i could work on the painting in the office, or maybe i can do the venetian plaster...it would take like 3 maybe 4 days..

one more thing..i've talked to rich kahn yesterday about my friends invoices, and he told me they are on hold because of the traveling day issue. sorry maybe i was not clear when i told you about paying..i dont want to do a favor for anybody but all the time when we had to work somewhere far and traveling tooks many hours then the traveling time was paid like working. i dont know in other working fields but in high end finishes field, people are working for projects as freelancers not like fulltime and they get paid for the traveling when it is a long travel..its like you lose a day anyway, if you want to pay the traveling day its fine, if not its nothing to do... anyway, i think they did a good job

thank you,
ion
