

From: Masha Drokova <[REDACTED]>

To: "jeffrey E." <jeevacation@gmail.com>

Date: Sat, 20 Jan 2018 23:53:01 +0000

---

Happy Birthday dear Jeffrey!

Wishing you interesting, unexpected year full of adventures and interesting people.

I knew from the first minutes of our meeting that you'd influence my life a lot. And that's what happened. I trust you a lot. I love your intellect, sense of humor and charisma but even more I love your big heart, kindness and your sincere care of your friends. That's a lot.

For me you are one of the brightest modern philosophers and thinkers and I'm incredibly thankful to be able to learn from you.

***

I was thinking about what to present you. I think experience is better than any gifts. I have a teacher Amara Charles who's been studying and teaching sexuality for over 35 years and really on of the best at that. Consider she's a scientist from sexuality. If you'd be willing, I'd offer to have brief call with her, see if you two get along and if yes, she'd meet you for lecture or mixture of lecture and some exercises(could be with your girlfriend)- whatever you prefer. Amara is completely cool, trustworthy, tactful and will definitely share something new and surprising. I thought this is on intersection of your interests. Let me know what you think about this idea. If it's too much, I'd totally understand too.

:)

***

In any case you are special to me and I'm celebrating your day. Sending you lots of love from Munich.