Dear Jonathan,

I am terribly worried about you.

I think you should ask Larry directly yourself, excuse the cliche, but man to man. He respects you. His email is [REDACTED]. His office telephone is [REDACTED] and the cell is [REDACTED].

They are leaving for the country and he will be racing but he'll be back next week. I think you should call and email him tomorrow to get on his radar. Make sure you spell out correctly your exact diagnosis.

He is also stepping down as the Chairman of Continuum in about a month I think, but he will still be on the board.

It might actually be an even better connection for you to talk to my stepmother Lucinda - and/or my father. Lucinda's sister is a really big deal at Johns Hopkins - on the admin/development side and that is where Daddy went for his prostate cancer surgery and he had the best possible outcome. Lucinda's email is [REDACTED] and her cell is [REDACTED].

Ken Lipper has endowed a part of Dana Farber - he might be a resource.

I am not in touch with him at all. Then of course there's David Koch, but you have probably asked him.

I would explore all your options and be open to new things. For example, the Cleveland Clinic is world renowned for their cardiac care - I would never think of going to Cleveland for anything, but you never know.

If it is a situation where the you need to stall the tumours growth and you are in a wait and see time frame, I personally would consult with an accupuncturist and doctor of chinese medicine who can dispense herbal supplements. Accupuncture is miraculous and I can hook you up with one of the best guys in the world who is here in the city.

If you are open to nutritional support, there is always new research coming out about foods that have anti cancer, and more importantly tumour retarding properties. This is a special interest of mine, so I can send you information as I come across it.

I'm really really sorry you have this terrifying thing to deal with.

Would you please tell me again what your diagnosis is and what is the protocol and time frame you have been advised about.

Not to minimize in any way what you are dealing with, I would like to say that I can offer you not only my sympathy but also my empathy. I have had some scary health issues of my own, as you know, and of late they have discovered some tumours on my thyroid with need further evaluation. Apparently that is a common benign issue in women of my age, but I am still nervous about it and still need to go in for further tests.

You know that you and I share a special bond that is never going to go away and that sometimes I need to literally detox from you because your short and seemingly uncontrollable temper causes me great pain. Nevertheless you are still part of me and I can't seem to ignore you for very long and I certainly won't let this kind of medical suffering go unacknowledged and unsupported. I will give my parents a heads up that you may be in touch.

As ever,
Elizabeth.
