"to earn a right to theirs" um..

i am thinking often of opening my own business - i thought of bringing J.CREW and banana republic to Moscow or Paris because they dont have it there or another option is to try to convince a Russian government to subsidy the establishment of the FAST TRAINS SYSTEM between different cities in Russia. The same as TGV in France - it goes 350 km/hour. It could be such a big step in the development of the infrastructure in this country...

when I was 14 I always wanted to bring H&M to Moscow but someone did it already 2 years ago and its incredibly popular Next step is to find out the mecanism how to involve investors into projects

Basically I understand that i need all the degrees just in case other plans dont work

one week until the exam and there are so many temptations in paris at the moment, all the dinner and spa invitations from american people here but i have to say no to everyone and sit and try to improve the score after work

---

Date: Fri, 25 Nov 2011 02:45:04 -0400
Subject:
From: jeevacation@gmail.com
To: ██████████████████████

one more week of studying,   of course everyone has an opnion , schoool should teach you that not everyone has earned a right to theirs

--