Looks like the solar neighbor program is ka-putz. Sounds like it was discontinued in the crash. Not surprising, really. I'll see if I can track down other contacts but I imagine the best path forward will be to just identify the top 3 players in the residential PV industry and request a quote from them. Do you want me to just send over contact info and have Bryce reach out to them to discuss the technicalities?

Hi Darling-

My contact at BP has moved on so I'll need to find out from Ed who the new point person is. I'll also check with a colleague of mine on our Solar team to see who the leaders are in the residential solar space. My colleague is traveling until Monday so give me a couple of days to dig.
