that's why you fit ! and the merger makes great sense for both sides. on a personal note , I am sensitive to your feelings No one knows better than you , the difficulty of transmitting caring guidance if you feel a person is unaware of the dangers they face. no question that you and JB are almost in the same business. going after the same clients , duplicating the same infrastructure IT . etc. As I have always seen it needs to start as some sort of joint operation , as you can't sell out , for fiscal reasons and they based on stock price are too expensive. can speak when you have time
