Jeffrey,

Toy store is completing the stitching on arm rest today, they should be done by 6pm,.

it is possible to make the journey from Florida to St Thomas in one day, if winds are not strong, its 9 hours flight time plus fuel stops , however weather is usually a factor in summer months and would not be able 4pm departure on Saturday,.

I don't want Toy store to rush the arm rest and compromise quality, I told them I need the heli completed for Saturday,.

Also, I noticed a loose face plate on the Co-Pilots EFIS tube yesterday afternoon, it works fine but has a loose screen,

I have submitted warranty with Bell, since this indicator carries a life time warranty with manufacture for defects or failure outright exchange is $71,000 however, I feel confident after speaking with Bell warranty, they will honor free exchange. Darren Rothell has allowed me to borrow his EFIS tube from his Bell 430 until I resolve and replace our gauge. He is down for Maintenance for several weeks,. I should have our gauge in hand by Tuesday,

Thx
Larry
