Dear Barnaby,

Thank you for your message from yesterday and my apology for not responding until now. I had a very full schedule upon my arrival yesterday and only getting to emails now.

I would welcome the opportunity to meet the person you mention on your email.

I am reasonably flexible today until 4pm however I am awaiting a confirmation regard one important meeting this afternoon.

Please let me know what time might be suitable and I will do all possible to make that work. my US cel is [REDACTED] Do not hesitate to call at anytime that is convenient.

I have copied my colleague, Melissa Remoundos, who is available to assist us with scheduling if needed.

Very best,
James

James,

This is very last-minute, but I think that there is someone that you might like in New York City tomorrow if you have any free time remaining. He has looked at your website and is interested in meeting you if you have free time. I would attend, too.

My cell number is [REDACTED] if you have a few minutes today, otherwise we could discuss later, for possible later time.

Best,

Barnaby
