I just boarded my flight for NYC. Will be connecting there for Seattle. Will call you when I land in 3h.
Called you this morning but some girl said you are busy and took a message.

I think it is a parafin block.

Pls connect me with the oncologist. I will connect oncologist with the foundation medicine to assure that all goes as fast as possible. Also they will give an extra hard look for every possible target. Will also connect w broad that they rake it to the extra level.

The cost of the test for foundation medicine is around 4k but most insurance are covering it. And even if one needs to pay it is worth it. Going without this into chemo is idiotic.

As we are finding out all mutations and targets of that tumor, we will seek for a best specialist. The best are at md Anderson in Houston.

Talk later
