Dear Steve,

Hope that everything is well with you. I'm sorry for not being able to return to you earlier...

At Sberbank, we have started a large effort to define the bank strategy for the next five years, a endeavor that pulls together the best minds in the industry to help us define our path to future growth.

As agreed I would be honoured if you would accept to join us in this effort, and allow us to tap into your vast experience dealing with the complexities of today's technology and business problems.

The main areas of interest for us, and correspondingly the key questions we are aiming to answer are:

1. How we can leverage technology as enabler for future business models
2. What are the key IT directions to focus on for a high performance bank
3. Which innovative disruptive technology trends will have the most impact on the banking industry
4. What are the main factors to consider for a Core Banking platform modernisation program
5. What are the technical directions and decisions to we need to make for deploying a multi-channel digital front-end system
6. What are the main options to consider when planing the transformation roadmap
7. What are the IT necessary capabilities to ensure strategic plan implementation success

We started the preliminary diagnostic work at the beginning of the year, and intend to have a high-level draft IT Strategy document by April. In this respect, we would appreciate if you could join us for a couple of brainstorming and advice days in Moscow, sometime during the months of March and April. Of course, we will cover all your expenses for the trip and help with visa arrangements. Alternatively, if you can not join us in person we may arrange your presence via a video conference facilities.

We will provide you with exact dates by March 5th, I put in copy my colleagues, Sergey Ryabov – chief architect and Mircea Mikhaescu- chief strategist and [REDACTED].

If while defining the strategy and road map for IT we consider building a new core banking platform we will be delighted to discuss with you further engagement as a consultant and /or supervisory board member of the new venture.

Thank you for your support,

Sincerely,

С Уважением / Best Regards,

Greetings,

I just wanted to touch base and follow up from our call.

Were you going to send along any additional information or have things taken a different direction with you?
Just asking...

Steven
