I can only barely follow this. If you have an idea go for it. I really don't know anything about finance. I am going to sell some MSFT Monday though given where this is heading.

Part of the fun is running out the clock to the conference on the 30th.

There is a giant reorg in play starting next week. He's essentially trashing the company and not using any known model for organizing software teams.

literally people I didn't know (two separate people) grabbed me at SFO and asked me concerned questions about the org changes.

It is like Apocalypse now and he is Marlon Brando living in the jungle.
