I feel badly that you are aggravated and self flagelating . I in no way want to end up , being described as you have justly described Bud, I great friend , but I made an error in following his advice.

There are many, in fact much too many ripe opportunities for misunderstandings in such a complex document morass. so I feel it necessary to be explicit, . No amount of money is worth having you feel I have disappointed you, and to minimize that potential. You should decide , if you want my input, it will have to come with my total oversight, or if not, I think I should step aside immediatley and entirely so that we may never have a discussion that starts "I thought you said", thats why, I did this or that. It is frustrating i know , but with what you and I have both gone through and the good things that surround us, in the scheme of things, we are doing remarkably well.
