Hey,

1. Glencore CIO has rescheduled 2 times in the past weeks, 1 call misconnected. Still on them.
2. Haven't spoken to O.D. yet (his travel), in close contact via assistants, hope to meet within this week.
3. Got an offer from large coal company (<http://www.suek.com/>) to run special projects, initially revolving ecology. Great team, not the best topic for me. May be a good start. No fixed hours, can do other stuff as well. Have 2 weeks to make up my mind.
4. Entrepreneurial wise - complete local absence of business development specialists for international markets for startups \ mid-size established companies. Usually teams here are solid engineers, but no clue on where to apply tech and how to sell abroad (I am interested in EU and UAE). See some opportunities here. Working on this idea.
5. Ab-Inbev promised to get back to me with final offer or rejection for Global Procurement team (best team in the world supposedly), but not that interested in them. Want to do more local \ international stuff here.
6. Seeing a locally based PE\VC fund that does international stuff this week. Like one of the partners (Wharton guy) and see if there are possibilities there.
7. Not looking into any corporate things at the moment.

Other potential things aren't interesting at all. Greatly glad to be home. Going to come over?

Regards,

Max
