yes, its possible , martin and i tried this weekend to work out communication between physical systems leads to biology. it is derived from communication. no reductionism to physics, - like looking at carbon based ink, and saying that the words they represent are physic based becuae of the carbon in the ink, very exciting, biology is more like a language, grammar syntax rules. then the deterministic physics. . utah is close to sanata fe. you can fly to alberquqe and i will pick you up.

This is very cool. This is the kind of stuff that makes me want to learn computation, math and physics so I can understand it more deeply. I do have an intuitive sense that entropy is the key to a lot of things and ties a lot of the math/bio stuff that we've been talking about together.
