Alan—does that work with an EPTL decanting? Can the Trustees give notice and then change their minds?

We also have that issue with the 2006 Trust as we may need the Trustees to decant funds to the 2011 Trusts in connection with the split-dollar proposal if that is to be completed before year-end. I assume that means we would need a new 30 day notice period (since the prior notice discussed decanting into the APO1 Trust)? Or should we just go ahead and decant all 2006 Trust Assets to the APO1 Trust and do the distribution from there? Either way, we will need to speak with the Trustees again.

Hi Jeffrey,

You noted that you did not want the 1997 Trust decanted until after our November 6th meeting so you could consider it together with other planning. Do you now wish to move forward with that decanting? We have to give the beneficiaries 30 days notice so we need to do that soon if you want it completed by year-end.

Please advise how you would like to proceed.

Best regards,
