Me owning his shares doesn't. But getting him out of my bank does, as it will allow me then to unlist the bank: they have 8% and a little less than 8% is in the (very illiquid) market.

how does your continuing to own shares of his bank hinder that? if he does not own shares of yours.

Theoretically yes. But I wonder if it's not better to outright net our respective positions. After it will be easier to reorg the holding by lines of business and country platforms. I am still waiting for David's lawyer's proposal about the name/decrossing Switzerland. It's been 3 weeks but we hope to have something next week.

question? can a third party buy David's stock in your bank, ? does it make sense for a friendly group, as long as you had a call and control on it. I know remuneration meetings suck, sorry,
