Jeffrey I feel like this room is occupying one of the best spots on the island and am wondering if this spot should be something that could bring you personally, joy. It's got its back (the bathroom to a beautiful view and the sunset) I keep picturing opening it up and making something for you. Your view from the kitchen is incredible but I like the thought of you seeing the sun go down every evening while you work

Please find attached my suggestions for possible floorplans and layout. The bathroom is not in the scope of work as we havent discussed yet, however I included a small section of it to represent the part that is visible from the bedroom upon entry or occupancy.

I am very mindful of views, which is why i indicated the bathroom like this, as there should always be something beautiful in the part visible from the bedroom. Upon entry into a room I don't like to see the side of a desk or side of a wardrobe etc. It should be inviting and feel like an entrance. Also mindful of light and windows. I know the room gets beautiful morning light from the courtyard side of the room which is why it would be my preference to enter on this side and keep the windows open, for chairs to read and the desk.

The dimensions of the room from [REDACTED] I am not entirely sold on, and the doors have been taken off their hinges in the photos, so I will need her to send me their exact dimensions and let me know if they are single or double and the way they swing. Door swings will be important for planning.
