he never got back to me after my note yesterday fyi..

also, amelia had meeting with the university attorney about the request for info on Origins project funding. The reporter contacted her yesterday and today saying he was particularly interested in connections to you.. We are providing him with minimal information on the budget at this time, and minimal information on donors to the foundation.. The good news is that if your foundation is listed at all (I am not sure yet what requirements there are for listing donors, and you can be sure the University will protect any info they legally can because they are pissed off at this journalist) it will be for the postdoctoral prize gift and undergrad scholarship gifts, which I would be happy for them to publish.. :) The Black foundation gift was specifically asked to be anonymous so I believe that cannot be disclosed in any case..

so, the university will not be getting back to him with information till at the earliest late next week...
