

From: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
To: Jeffrey Epstein <jeevacation@gmail.com>
Subject: FYI -aobiome
Date: Mon, 28 Jul 2014 19:07:38 +0000

F,
This is the response to the request for docs. You're talking with Jamie today, right?

I'm seeing Neil Gershenfeld on Wednesday afternoon.

I just jumped in to help a little with the Templeton grant, and I understand you are likely to match it. Joi and I had a good conversation about this Friday night.

I'm beginning to think you're right... that the Advisory Council is the best affiliation for me and that it doesn't make sense to go beyond that.

I don't summarize easily. I tend to offer value across a lot of different areas and have gotten sucked into a lot of free consulting here (at the Media Lab). I doubt that will be satisfying over the long term and I'd like to be making more money than I'm spending (and free consulting is not the path to that). I'd also like to feel like I have time to explore my own ideas.

In companies, I've always been sucked into "Special Projects" type roles and then have often created groups and done work across areas. I've always thought of this as inter-disciplinary, but when Joi talks about anti-disciplinary, and working in the "white space," I do resonate with that.

So this little adventure is still unfolding. One of the most fun recent conversations I had was with Media Lab Fellow, Christopher Bevans, who is working for Ron Burkle on apparel and swag (Christopher was formerly with Nike). I started talking with him about ideas for Essential Self type clothing, and he loved the ideas...

Meanwhile, today is a writing day and I'm working with someone later this week to get a sense how to package my writing/ideas for a book (finally).

Still enthusiastic about spending a lot of time on this coast, and still working out the details. And the best thing is that I'm feeling good. It's been a long road back to that!

xoxo
[REDACTED]

Begin forwarded message:

From: Joe Grimm <[REDACTED]>
Subject: Re: Jeffery Epstein
Date: July 25, 2014 10:15:25 AM PDT
To: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>, James Heywood <[REDACTED]>

Hi [REDACTED]

I'll send docs early next week. However, the most recent set of financial statements is for May 2014. We are still preparing June statements, which should be done by the end of July.

Have a great weekend,

Joe

Joseph Grimm
CFO
AOBiome LLC

On 7/25/14 11:28 AM, "[REDACTED]" <[REDACTED]> wrote:

Jamie, Joe -

I just spoke to Jeff Epstein. He'd like to see the financial docs (how much money is in the company, money being raised, etc., etc.). I'd like to see that, too. Great if you can send those docs our way.

Thanks,