I shouldn't have stayed. You are far more important to me than any of that. And even though you told me to stay I should have know it was a complete risk. It would have been one thing just myself but I needed to organize [REDACTED] and steves brother.

Steves house is in the middle of nowhere. Uber can't even locate it so they can't pick us up. Traffic into the city was terrible and took an hour longer than anticipated.

It was stupid and not worth the risk of causing you stress. In future I don't care who wants me where, if you need me for something I will be at home to do it properly.
