I'm just teasing you. I'd love to see you for a catch up when you have time. I'm just unable to get to my office so I lay around all day on the telephone, which isn't so bad, but I pine for human contact. I also have a lot of questions, but we can talk on the phone. I'll be "up" and around in about 30 mins. I need to wait for this muscle relaxer to kick in. I missed the window last night and so my back is cramping.

Surgery went well (I'm told), though the scope and magnitude of the matter was greater than they had anticipated. I'll know over the next couple of days if it worked as advertised. I am in less pain now then pre surgery, that's for sure. The surgeon was great and his team was amazing. The facility at Mt. Sinai was fabulous and everyone was professional, attentive, responsive and friendly. I could not ask for more. I am home now with home nursing care for a couple of days (and plenty-o-drugs). Pain is under control and I'm working through the normal post-op/post gen'l anesthetic challenges. I am weaning myself off the meds today so I should be sharp by this afternoon. I expect to spend the day on the phone, albeit horizontal. Before you know it I'll be good as new. Thanks so much for checking up on me. If you are in town, maybe you could stop by for a visit? I am not quite yet ambulatory. Xoxo ALF
