Dear [REDACTED],

It is my pleasure as Director of the Julien J. Studley Graduate Program in International Affairs (SGPIA) at The New School to congratulate you on your acceptance into our Master's program. I very much hope you will join us in fall 2018.

We are in the midst of another exciting year at SGPIA. Our students are preparing to participate in International Field Programs in South Africa, the Balkans, Colombia, Cuba, Argentina, and Ethiopia. Others are planning to remain in New York City to participate in our intensive United Nations Summer Study. Students in the Havana Studio are spending their spring break in Cuba working in city preservation with government officials. Students in one of our Practicum groups are preparing to travel to Kenya in April to work with a local NGO to implement a monitoring and evaluation project.

This has also been a year of faculty achievement and contribution to discussion of critical international issues. Faculty member Sakiko Fukuda-Parr won the American Political Science Association's prize for Best Book in Human Rights for Fulfilling Social and Economic Rights. Professor Sheba Tejani led a successful panel discussion on feminist economics, which included internationally prominent feminist scholars and practitioners from UN Women and the Open Society Foundations. Professor Nina Khrushcheva was a featured speaker in a New York Times Talk on Russia and the 2016 election.

Should you accept our offer of admission, you will join this dynamic community of scholars, practitioners, and advocates working in diverse fields: development, human rights, conflict resolution and peacebuilding, journalism and new media, documentary filmmaking, the environment, government, urban planning, and countless others.

In thinking about your choice, I encourage you to:

- Visit the new SGPIA blog
- Explore the career paths of SGPIA graduates
- Connect with us on Twitter
- Join us for one of our many upcoming events

If you have questions about any aspect of our program, please email me directly (fukudaps@newschool.edu) or reach out to our Associate Director, Phil Akre (akrep@newschool.edu). We will either address your questions or direct you to current students or to a member of the faculty or staff.

I hope that you will accept our offer of admission, and I look forward to welcoming you to our community.

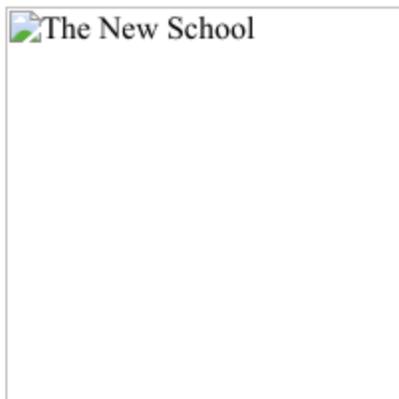

Warm regards,
Sakiko Fukuda-Parr
