and speaking of discrimination.. Ms. Ellison specifically made a point of telling me they went on no fishing expeditions but only responded to complainants who reached out to them. Note this email in January, a month before the BuzzFeed article came out.. but after I had informed the University that an article might come out.

I repeat. Lucy didn't talk to anyone which is one of the reasons this is so stupid.

Also we are admitting the accidental touch of breast. No one has established intent and when you see the photo it is obvious I was not prepared for selfie when this woman moved in on me. Anyway even she doesn't say intentional.

Glad your lawyer both laughed and also sees hope. It is definitely biased.

the only thing that matters there is what did or does lucy say?? my lawyer thinks the discrimination suit has legs. he said your case is a loser on the facts. you did do it. everyone says you did it. his view after he stopped laughing at my idea said , yes , dont make it about what he did, make it about why? not sure if i agree but its quite amusing. He also thought that your admissions were ill advised. to put it mildly

Ha. Interesting.

They only spoke to pen, who wasn't her supervisor.

I re read this , . it said lucy told her supervisor . . ? so did they speak to lucy or only the supervisor. . I have an out of the box thought. . The list of behavior that goes back years. is illustrative of a socially impaired professor , not a predator or a danger. Im wondering whether we can suggest and document that you are on the asperger spectrum. as is obvious to all, it is a benefit and a burden. To dismiss you would be paramount to firing a handicapped person. . you have a disease and should be protected, rehabilitated and cannot be fired under the labor laws? the more severe form of your disorder would be tourettes. . they need to protect the handicapped not fire them. They are engaged in discrimination. . they also were on notice re your disease for years. Only when contronted with a public gossip artichel did they take action. . IF being silly , socially unaware is a crime. under title 9 , half of the great scientists would be out of work.
